A Man Who Seems to Be Able to Exist Withoot Food. Will Signor Succi succumb! Such has been the leading question among physiologists in New York city for some time as the famous faster has been making his test of forty-five days without food. He did forty days in London, and nearly equal terms in other forsign cities, but promised forty-five days' abstinence in New York. as Dr. Tanner had already done forty days. His method, however, differs widely from Tanner's, for he takes considerable exercise. On the

which, the attending physicians say, consists of opium, licorice and a slight infusion of hasheesh. They insist that it constomach and prevents that gnawing sensation which is so painful in the first days Signor Succi's theory is much the same as Tanner's, viz.: If you cannot get food, and think you must have it and yield to the longing for it, you will starve in two weeks or less, but if you resolutely make up your mind to do without it you can for six or seven weeks. To this the Signor adds: "An electric force generated by my will keeps me up. I absorb electricity just as you absorb oxygen. When fasting doses of an elixir of his own invention, my will power stronger. It is a power like galvanism, and I discovered my pos-session of it first by accident. I have increased it by practice." The appointed physicians attest that there is no doubt whatever of the reality of his fast and that he is adding a valuable contribution to science. He is by birth a Neapolitan, a short, spare man of dark complexion, with bright eyes and a nervous manner, but with strength of will ap-parent in every look and gesture.
